Jarrell is a charming little city in Central Texas with a population of approximately 1,800 people. Despite being a community of only 2.81 square miles, Jarrell is close to several larger cities, including the state capital of Austin.

The Granary is the fan favorite among Jarrell residents and visitors just passing through. The Granary brings together three of central Texas' most popular past times: live music, great drinks, and fantastic food.

The bar and the BBQ stand are staples. However, the establishment also hosts several food trucks, serving everything from garlic seafood trays to coffee and even Lao food.

Other popular food and drink options are available in Jarrell, like Starbucks, Love at First Bite, El Pitayo Mexican Kitchen, and Sonic Drive-In.

In terms of recreation, Jarrell offers Jarrell Memorial Park, and the village is close to several exceptional recreation and entertainment destinations.

Those interested in a one-of-a-kind archaeological experience can make their way to Inner Space Cavern in nearby Georgetown. Berry Springs Park and Preserve is also located in the neighboring community of Georgetown. Visitors can explore the massive farm property or try their hand at fishing in Berry Springs.
